It was Serge's position that we not promote that unless asked.

How did this agreement come about?

Someone known to both parties reached out to broker a short-term solution, and thankfully both sides were able to agree on this win that will significantly limit the impact of the convoy on our downtown residents.

Do you believe the truckers will honour their commitment?

We have been engaging with Tamara, the president of the convoy, and she believes they have the support of most truck drivers to deliver on this plan. They've assured us that they did not intend to harm residents, and I believe they are doing this as a gesture of goodwill to try to advance their cause.

What if the trucks don't leave?

If the trucks don't leave, then it's status quo and we're not worse off than we are now. At least we will have tried.

Do you have any advice for residents during this operation?

Moving all these trucks from our downtown streets is obviously a large logistical undertaking. I would ask residents to stay home if they can, in order to help the City and the convoy members clear our residential streets in the core.
